Shibli was 20 years older than Atiya, but sends her a photo which was taken at the age of 30.

Atiya got a portrait made from that photograph by her husband, the famous artist Rahamin. This portrait was shown at his first exhibition held at the Galerie Georges Petit in Paris in 1914. Some French art lovers wanted to buy that portrait at a high price but Atiya didn't agree to it.

Those were the days when, if the women belonging to the Ashraaf class—the nobility, had to travel by train, they had to take a Doli or palanquin, which was brought to the Railway station, and the noble woman, wrapped in her Burqa would, with great difficulty climb the two steps of the Railway carriage and was shut in that box, running on the iron rails.
